Read the passage below:

Ranvir Dasgupta is a final-year school student at the Queen's Academy in Amritsar, India. She lives with her family at 39 Hungerford Road, Amritsar 143 026, telephone number 183-630551. For the past nine months she has been using her own personal email address, ranidas@telmail.in, to correspond with her many friends and relatives.

Although Ranvir is not outstanding at her studies, she does take part in many different sports and is a member of her school teams for netball, hockey and tennis. Her main interest, however, is as a girl guide. She has been a guide since she was only 10, and for the past two years she has been leader of the Queen's Academy Girl Guide Troop. Her speciality is orienteering, a competitive sport in which runners have to find their way across the countryside with the aid of a map and compass.

The latest edition of the Guiding Magazine contains an announcement for an International Girl Guide Tournament, to be held later this year in Brisbane, Australia, from 19th to 23rd November 2014. Ranvir is determined to take most of her troop to the tournament so that they can compete as a team in the orienteering race. She will have her 18th birthday before she goes, and for a birthday present her father has promised to pay her return airfare and accommodation as well as the tournament entry fee for the whole troop, consisting of herself and five other girls. While attending the tournament, the troop will live together in a hall of residence belonging to Brisbane University. Ranvir has chosen this location because it is nearer to the sites of all the competitions than any of the hotels or guest houses recommended by the organisers of the tournament, the Australian Girl Guide Association.

All the other girls will travel to Australia ten days before the tournament opens in order to do some sightseeing first. Ranvir must stay behind in India to wait for her final exam results. She will arrange to fly out on 17th November 2014 on flight QA 225, which is scheduled to land in Brisbane at 6.10pm. An official tournament minibus will meet that flight and take the participants, who will be arriving from all over the world, to their individual places of accommodation.

Ranvir has recently renewed her passport, number ST8224073, and she must now go to the Australian Consulate in Delhi to get an application form for a visa to stay in the country for three weeks. She has been advised to state on the form that she will be visiting the country for tourism and sport. This is because, after the tournament, she would like to visit the Great Barrier Reef off the coast of Queensland. She also intends to spend a week in Melbourne, staying with her aunt, Dr Gayatri Bhaskaram, who lives there with her family. Her aunt has kindly agreed to act as her personal sponsor.

Imagine you are Ranvir. Fill in the application form on the opposite page, using the information above.
